Court Street Bridge Dark > Archived

DESCRIPTION

The bridge on Court Street between State and Artizan is unbelievably dark. The same bridge on Chapel has 2 lights and yet far more people travel via Court from downtown to get home to Wooster Square. Please fix!

Share  Tweet 0  Share 0  +1 0

“I don't go downtown to dinner or drinks as much because I have to walk this bridge to get there and back. I'd be spending a lot more money downtown this winter if I felt safe getting there!”

“Last night a mugging occurred in this dark area. Four men mugged someone at the corner of Court and Olive Streets. Two of the muggers had handguns. They took a cellphone and a black wallet with $25. What is is going to take to get lights in this area?”

“Last night a mugging occurred in this dark area. Four men mugged someone at the corner of Court and Olive Streets. Two of the muggers had handguns. They took a cellphone and a black wallet with $25. What is is going to take to get lights in this area?”

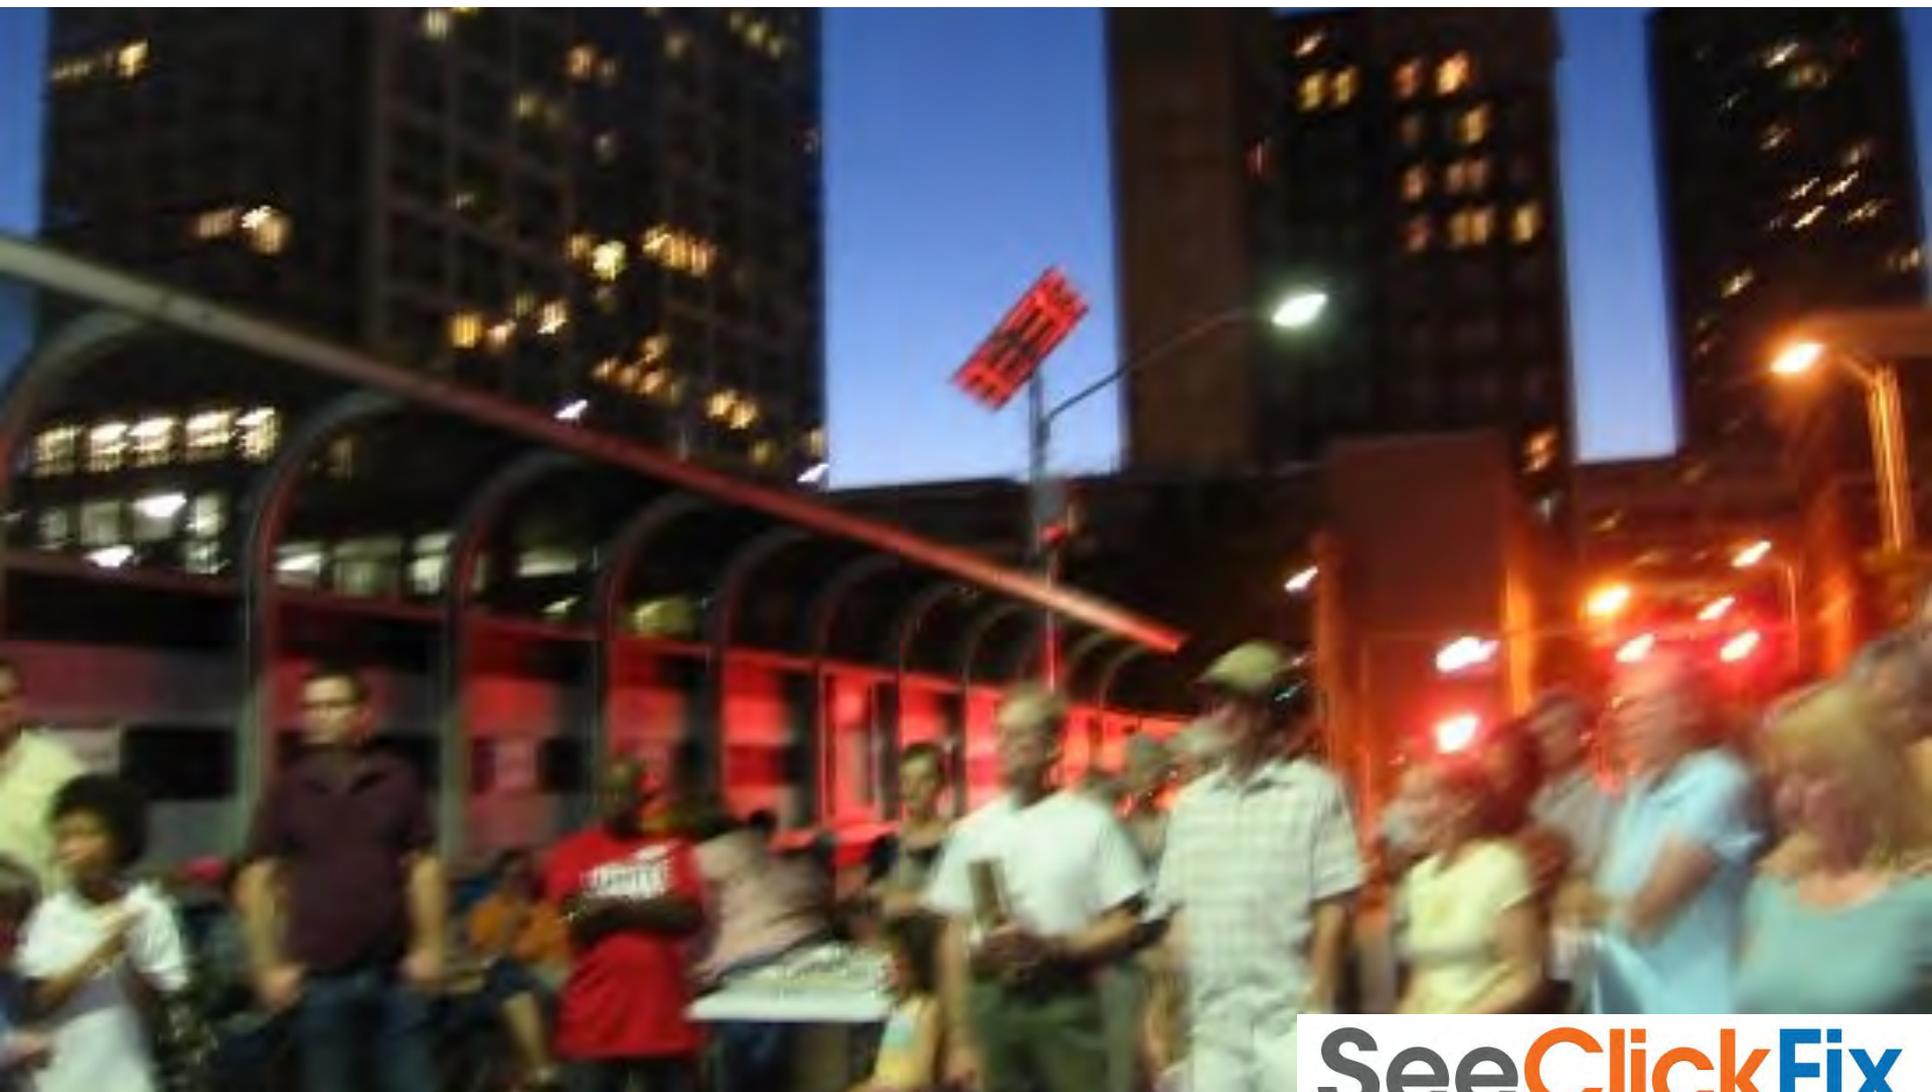

“We had a terrific response from the NHPD. We have installed a camera and lights are coming on the Court Street Bridge. Also, the law office and the Smoothie Building got their parking lot lights on which has helped tremendously. We have not had an incident since Christmas Eve.”

“Thanks to the nearly 50 people who attended Last night's Wooster Sq Watch mtg. Our guests were Rob Smuts, Chief Administrative Officer for Mayor DeStefano, Seb Asadourian, City Engineer, Lt. Rebecca Sweeney and Officer Pete Krause from NHPD.

Because the Court Street Bridge is over the railroad track, lighting the bridge is particularly challenging. Seb Asadourian explained that there is a high voltage system under the bridge which complicates using electric lights to light the bridge.

Instead, they have proposed solar lighting. These are maintenance free and the city may be able to use stimulus money to pay for them.

They have done a photometric analysis and determined that 3 light solar light fixtures will provide light all the way across the bridge. “

Recruit a grocer for Shartenberg tower ▸ Archived

DESCRIPTION

Downtown New Haven badly needs a fresh produce market. Market analysis backs up this claim. The developers of the Shartenberg tower have had trouble recruiting the likes of Trader Joe's and Whole Foods to occupy retail space in the tower. Citizens need to get involved in persuading out-of-town retailers to consider this space (i.e., Fairway in NYC). Interested grocers should contact the City of New Haven Economic Development Office.

“I live in Wooster Square and don't own a car. Every couple of weeks I rent a Zipcar and stock up on groceries, but if there was a grocery store at 360 State it would be my exclusive shopping location!”

SeeClickFix

“I'd love to see something like the indoor farmer's market in portland, maine, or something like philly's reading terminal market: a collection of vendors, grocers, and specialty stores that is affordable and immediately accessible to anyone who lives or works downtown. but i'm not sure if it would work, or if it would address the concerns of the "food desert" that downtown new haven is.”

“Looking forward to closing this issue this summer.

The market is hiring 100 people in the next 90 days -- tell your friends.”

DESCRIPTION

Lacking a bus shelter, people waiting for the bus are now gathering in front of the two doors of 746 Chapel, creating a hazard. In the past two days, I've had two collisions, one of which resulted in having a hot cup of coffee spilled on me. Ouch! Let's get this fixed before someone really gets hurt.

"I work in the building and I'm thrilled that the City finally came through with the bus shelter. Great organizing effort by many people, including the tenants at 746 Chapel and our Alderman, Doug Hausladen. Interesting that the City stonewalled the landlord for years, telling him that "the sidewalk isn't wide enough" for a shelter. Even if it's not a perfect location, the new shelter seems to fit just fine."

“The cost for fencing the dog park would be around $17,250. There would also be some other site costs associated with the fencing work i.e. removal of existing wood posts, etc.

The City might be able to provide some funding but at this point the majority of the cost would have to be funded privately.”

Another SeeClickFix user suggested this as a plausible dog park location. Any thoughts or comments? It seems a reasonable distance from the Wooster Square Park area so it would lessen the amount of dogs in that location and may be a good compromise.

DESCRIPTION

We are looking to create a trail of dog paws (stenciled/spray paint) to help boost awareness of the Union Street Dog Park and help knit the area together.

The paw-trail will lead from the new garden at the corner of Union/Chapel to the entrance of the dog park on Union Street.

We hope to have the paw-trail connect the dog park and this corner to 360 State and an area close to Wooster Square.

A little pocket of land at corner of Union and Chapel has been transformed by neighborhood volunteers from blight into a little garden.

If you walk by and can pour some water on one of the plants when you pass, it will help a lot to get them established.

Even if you just save the cup from your morning coffee, fill it up before you leave the house or work, and water one plant with it on your way by, you will be making a big difference.

Thank you!

The new dog park is great. Thanks to all who made it happen.

How much would it cost to install a water spigot here? I would donate some money if others would.

The new Union St Dog Park will be finished within weeks and safety in the area has become Issue #1. This location will soon to be trafficked by residents from Wooster Square, 360 State, Downtown and beyond but when the sun sets it is VERY DARK. Let's get lights up on the poles across the street so that neighbors are safe and police can identify any dangerous or unlawful activity at night. The sun will set by 5p only 6 weeks after the park opens. Let's get this done!

A flood light was just installed in the Union Street Dog Park. The flood light appears not to be adjusted correctly, as it is shining directly into 360 State Street apartments, lighting up the apartments at night and casting stark shadows. While I understand the need for flood lights for safety purposes, they should be adjusted or shielded so as to illuminate the ground.
