

Caroline Dwyer, AICP

Renaissance Planning

Caroline Dwyer, AICP is a Project Manager with Renaissance Planning, based out of Durham, North Carolina. Caroline's goal is to facilitate community-focused planning resulting in strategic actions and increased capacity, for achieving healthy and sustainable growth and development. Her planning specializations include food systems planning, planning for public health, sustainability, resilience, community and economic development, and post-disaster community recovery. Her current professional motivator is developing public engagement/outreach techniques that encourage and support participation from un/underrepresented citizens and community stakeholders. In addition to her work at Renaissance, Caroline serves on the Executive Committee of the American Planning Association's Women & Planning Division and on the City of Durham's Public Art Committee. Caroline graduated summa cum laude from SUNY Stony Brook in 2011 with a degree in Environmental Design, Policy, and Planning and with a Master's Degree in City & Regional Planning from the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill in 2014.