

Shelby D. Green

Elisabeth Haub School of Law, Pace University

After graduating from law school at Georgetown University Law Center, Professor Green worked as an associate at Nixon, Hargrave, Devans & Doyle (now Nixon Peabody), in Rochester, N.Y. and Washington, D.C., where she focused on corporate, litigation, communications, labor law, and tax (kicking and screaming) matters. For many years, she served as a member of the Board of Directors of Legal Services of the Hudson Valley, White Plains, N.Y. She is currently a member of the Board of the John Jay Heritage Center, Rye, N.Y. She is also the chair of the Board of Trustees of the Brooklyn Music School. Professor Green also serves the community through her pro bono work for which she received a service award from the New York State Bar Association. For three years, she served as the director of the Pace LL.M. Program in Real Estate Law. She is a member of the American College of Real Estate Lawyers. Currently, she is the editor of the “Keeping Current—Property” column in Probate & Property, a magazine published by the Real Property, Trust and Estate Law Section of the American Bar Association. She is chair of the Legal Education Group of that section, which among other things offers the “Professors’ Corner”, a monthly webinar on current topics. She has authored articles in the areas of property law and corporations.

At Haub, she teaches Property, Historic Preservation and Real Estate Transactions & Finance and is counsel to the Land Use Law Center.
